

REC ROLE PLAYING 3

Two people

Mr. Firelands -- REC Employee

O. U. Kidder -- REC Member

O. U. Kidder approaches Mr. Firelands in any setting selected by players. Mr. Firelands can assume any position in the co-op that the players may feel is appropriate.

O. U. Kidder is concerned that his electricity costs too much. His main point is that Firelands is a cooperative and a basic principle of co-ops is that they are supposed to be cheaper!

Mr. Firelands will need to respond that it is not a principle of a co-op to be cheaper. They must pay costs, labor, equipment, interest, etc. and explain the disposition of surplus earnings.

Prepared by Dr. Charles H. Ingraham, Extension Economist, Business Management, Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.